

Dormouse Ecology and Conservation Training Course

Monday 27th & Tuesday 28th November 2017
6.00pm – 9.00pm
Sparsholt College, Winchester

The course which is split over two evenings is ideal for those with either a general interest in Dormice and those looking to work towards their Dormouse Handling License. The course will include an introduction to relevant legislation, dormouse identification and life cycles as well as survey techniques, including dormouse nest identification and feeding signs, as well as methods used under the National Dormouse Monitoring Programme.

The course will also look at dormouse conservation and practical habitat management techniques.
